Multimodality: Embodiment and Intersubjectivity

MaMuD4, 23.–24. November 2017

Die Professur für Sprachgebrauch und multimodale Kommunikation organisiert im Rahmen der internationalen Veranstaltungsreihe Mapping Multimodal Dialogue (MaMuD) einen Workshop zum Thema Multimodality: Embodiment and Intersubjectivity. Mit den thematischen Schwerpunkten Intersubjektivität und Verkörperung stehen zwei Aspekte von Multimodalität im Vordergrund, an deren divergentem Verständnis sich kognitive und interaktionale Strömungen festmachen. Der Workshop zielt besonders auf die Reflektion dieser theoretischen Konzepte und die Konsequenzen, die sich aus ihnen für die empirische Erforschung multimodaler Kommunikation und Interaktion ergeben.

Bremen Conference on Multimodality

BreMM17, 20.–22. September 2017

BreMM17 is the third event in a series of annual conferences on multimodality at the University of Bremen, Germany. It addresses the diversity of (inter-)disciplinary and methodological approaches to the description and analysis of multimodality and offers room for discussion and reflection of recent and contemporary developments of multimodality research and all disciplines involved. Basic terminological, methodological and analytical questions are in the focus of the conference and its discussions. Their aim is to bring together a broad variety of perspectives on multimodal communication and, finally, to pave the way for multimodality as a multifaceted and at the same time self-sufficient and more clearly contoured discipline.

Language as a Form of Action

21.–23. Juni 2017

The DComm Project in collaboration with ISTC-CNR and Gest_lan_d Project are pleased to announce the Conference “Language as a Form of Action” to be held at the Consiglio Nazionale delle Ricerche (CNR) in Rome, Italy. The aim of the conference is to approach gesture and sign language research in an interdisciplinary way by bringing together researchers working on these topics from the fields of linguistics, neuroscience, developmental psychology, developmental robotics, philosophy, and other related disciplines. We aim to explore the concept of “language” in its full complexity, i.e., by considering the interaction of vocal and manual (including non-manual features) modalities in spoken languages as well as in signed languages.

The Week of Gesture and Sign

12.–14. Juni 2017

Vom 12. Bis 14. Juni veranstaltet die interfakultäre Einrichtung Stuttgart Research Focus (SRF) der Universität Stuttgart zur Förderung der interdisziplinären Forschung in den Bereichen Sprachwissenschaft und Kognition die „Week of Gesture and Sign“.

International Conference on Multimodal Communication

09.–11. Juni 2017

The first international conference on multimodal communication is organized by Alexander Bergs and Mark Turner and will be held at Osnabrück University. The topic of the conference is “Developing new theories and methods”. We encourage presentations on any aspect of multimodal communication, including topics that deal with language and multimodal constructions, paralinguistics, facial expressions, gestures, cinema, theater, role-playing games etc. The research domains can be drawn from personal interaction, social media, mass media, group communication etc. We invite conceptual papers, observational studies, experiments, and computational, technical, and statistical approaches.

Ecological Cognition and Metaphor

RaAM, 18.–19. Mai 2017

We are pleased to announce that the 6th specialized seminar of RaAM – the International Association for Researching and Applying Metaphor – will take place at the University of Southern Denmark in Odense, Denmark, hosted by the Department of Language and Communication. The theme of the seminar is “Ecological Cognition and Metaphor”. Its goal is to investigate the ecological perspective within cognitive science that seeks to explore thought, feeling and action as inter-related dimensions of an agent-environment system in relation to the study of metaphor.
